

Master Plan of Zhijie District, Ningxi

This project is my graduation capstone for Bachelor Degree. Zhijie District was once a thrived fair among the five towns nearby in this mountainous area, yet gradually declined. It keeps some old traditions as well as architecture style. The main task of this project is to revitalize Zhijie District by exploiting its potentialities and design methods.

We spent more than two weeks staying in Town of Ningxi, did solid on-site survey, including the traditional dwelling archive, local customs and festivals and collected questionnaires for local residents about their opinions on rebuilding the commercial belt. The plan combined the residential area with commercial and tourism, bringing double benefit to both local residents and customers.
